

2020 STRATUM

VINTAGE NOTES

Up and down the western slopes of Sonoma's Mayacamas Mountains lie rare deposits of volcanic soils brimming with energy and tension. Through deep yet wide-ranging analysis of these elusive terroirs and the application of ultra-precision farming and winemaking, Hamel has captured a pure expression of these qualities in a new Cabernet Sauvignon blend. In homage to the central role geologic exploration played in crafting this wine and in recognition of it being a singular expression of an expansive area, we call it "Stratum."

TASTING NOTES

Dark ruby swirling in the glass, the bouquet reveals dark cherry, plum and cassis, complemented by notes of violets, cedar and iron. Dark fruit flavors envelop a sanguine mineral core on the palate, framed by fine, supple tannins and a refreshing vibrancy. Balanced and classically poised, the wine shows an intricate, chalky minerality that brings flavor and persistence. Enjoyable in the near-term, the wine will continue to develop over the next 10 years.

ACCOLADES

90 POINTS

ROBERT PARKER WINE ADVOCATE

"...understated scents of cassis, balsamic, dried herbs, coffee and meaty tones. ...medium-bodied with restrained, mineral-driven flavors and a refreshing finish."

— Erin Brooks, October 2024

92 POINTS

JEB DUNNUCK

"...fresh with mineral earth, fresh cherry, and red flowers. ...notes of fresh soil, black berry, and a bit of meaty richness, as well as ripe tannins and a clean finish with a savory edge."

— Audrey Frick, July 2024

WINE ENTHUSIAST

"Aromas of kaffir lime leaf, pineapple, sage, pithy citrus, lemon blossom and candied ginger mingle and dance on the nose of this concrete egg- and neutral-oak-aged wine. The palate brings nervy freshness and minerality that persists with flavors of lime peel and tart pineapple in a framework of generous acidity that vibrates along the finish."

THE TASTING PANEL
MAGAZINE

"From the western slopes of the Mayacamas, volcanic soils of rhyolitic colluvium and fractured basalt play an integral role in shaping the character of this estate blend of 66% Cabernet Sauvignon and 34% Merlot. Seamless, luscious, and broad, with suede tannins capturing ripe red cherry and cinnamon tea. A dusty cocoa-plum profile exudes pulchritude and charm."

WINE ADVOCATE

"It has a deep ruby color and a nose that is bursting with Morello cherries, baked blueberries, charcuterie, fried savory herbs and peppercorn—complex yet open for business. Medium to full-bodied, the palate is concentrated and oral with persistent acidity, silty tannins and fragrant violet and graphite nuances on the long finish."

Robert Parker

"Deep ruby, it offers generous waves of floral perfume—violet and lilac—with a core of blueberry and black cherry jam and wafts of tobacco, pepper, and graphite. The full-bodied palate embodies power and weightlessness, with ultra powdery tannins and refreshing acidity that draws out its fragrance. Its flavors are pure yet complex, and it finishes with haunting iron and violet character."
